

2023 IN-PERSON EVENT

—simply—
COACHING SUMMIT
BOOTCAMP

JULY 20-21, 2023

Fishers, Indiana

Bootcamp Details

What is the Simply Coaching Summit Bootcamp?

The Simply Coaching Summit Bootcamp is a 2-Day in-person training! The sessions will be highly interactive and you will leave ready to implement what you have learned right away! These sessions are NOT SIT AND GET-style sessions! Don't wear your Sunday best unless you can get busy in it!

This DOES NOT replace the 2023 Virtual Simply Coaching Summit! The in-person Bootcamp will be the following week. Tickets for this event will include a 2023 July virtual summit ticket. The content presented at the in-person Bootcamp will be different from the virtual summit. They are DIFFERENT one is a conference (keynote speakers and learning sessions) and one is a Bootcamp (workshop style)!

We are only selling 175 tickets, so purchase early to secure your spot!

The S.I.M.P.L.E. Blueprint for Instructional Coaching

Nicole S. Turner & Allison Petersen (Whole Group Session)

Transitioning from a classroom teacher to an instructional coach can be scary and daunting. You were hired as an instructional coach because you were great in the classroom. You are a trained teacher, but coaching is different. You lack the professional development and training for your new role. There are many books and courses for you to dive into, but time is limited. You need a SIMPLE plan with SIMPLE Steps to get started. Nicole & Allison will provide a blueprint for instructional coaching that will outline the most crucial components of instructional coaching.

Better Coaching Cycles: Meaning & Purpose in 5 Easy Steps

Chrissy Beltran Ceniceros (Breakout Rotation Session #1)

Coaching cycles are a staple of coaching work, but they can be overwhelming, hard to manage, and harder to initiate. In this session, coaches will learn the basic steps to conducting a coaching cycle and how to make each one purposeful and meaningful for teachers. Coaches will walk away with the forms they need to document their coaching cycles with teachers as well as practical tips for each step along the way. Strategies for getting teachers invested in coaching cycles will help coaches make the most out of their time with teachers.

How to Stay Out of the Whirlwind: Time Management Strategies for Coaches

Allison Petersen (Breakout Rotation Session #2)

When you become a coach, you transition from having every minute of your day scheduled for you to staring at a blank calendar wondering what to do with your time. In this session, you will learn practical time management strategies to help you focus on coaching and stay out of the whirlwind of busyness at school. You'll workshop your ideal week schedule, set up your Google calendar, and learn quick strategies to track every coaching conversation.

Coaching with a Classroom Management Lens

Gretchen Bridgers (Whole Group Session)

Gain clarity on how to effectively coach teachers to manage a classroom instead of behavior. By being proactive instead of reactive, teachers will gain more instructional time to help students become more successful faster.

Purposeful Observations

Iesha Billups & Crystal Ceresani (Breakout Rotation Session #3)

Session description coming soon.

Building Relationships with Teachers

Nita Creekmore (Whole Group Session)

Relationships are the foundation of our coaching work. Without the power of relationships, it is almost impossible to move forward in our work. Nita Creekmore will be discussing the importance of coaching relationships and ways cultivate relationships with teachers. This session will be interactive and will allow time for reflection and actionable steps to take and implement right away. Get ready to connect with Nita in an authentic and fun way.

You've Got Feedback to Give, and We've Got Your Six

Casey Watts (Whole Group Session)

Do you sometimes wonder what feedback to give to teachers? Do you question when and how to provide feedback? No worries! We've got your back! In this session, we'll learn about the role of feedback and how to provide effective, meaningful feedback that holds teachers accountable and leaves them feeling supported.

A Practical, Fun Approach to Co-Teaching

Nicole S. Turner & Chrissy Beltran Ceniceros (Whole Group Session)

If the thought of co-teaching stresses you out, you're not alone. Figuring out how to teach alongside a classroom teacher while coaching them is a challenge! But there are so many benefits to co-teaching for both the coach and the teacher. In this session, we'll talk about how to make co-teaching work for you. Participants will walk away with a plan for implementing co-teaching and all the tools they need to make it work. It just might become your favorite coaching strategy!

Marching Into "No Man's Land": PLCs and Planning Meetings

Casey Watts (Breakout Rotation Session #1)

Leading teams during PLCs and Content Planning Meetings can feel like you're caught in "no man's land". It is a vulnerable place to be as a coach- between your vision of what professional learning COULD and SHOULD be and the actual current reality. This session is all about how to move the needle in the right direction! You'll walk away with concrete strategies to help you climb out of "no man's land" with an army of teachers right alongside you so EVERYONE can experience purposeful PLCs and Planning Meetings!

Data Driven Coaching

Crystal Ceresani (Breakout Rotation Session #2)

In this session, we will dig into hosting your data dives at school. We will discuss the process of creating a data-driven culture, determine where your school is in terms of highly effective data teams, and work on coming up with an action plan to move your school forward from wherever you are in the data-driven culture process. The goal of this session will be to equip you with the knowledge, resources, and confidence to host data dives at your school in a way that genuinely engages your staff in conversations that are reflective, honest, and purposeful.

Modeling and Gradual Release

Nicole Turner & Iesha Billups (Whole Group Session)

This interactive session will provide different coaching modeling method strategies. Participants will receive quick takeaway strategies that a coach can add to their coaching toolbox as they work to grow teachers. This session will help coaches to guide and support teachers who can benefit from visual teaching, coaching, planning, and modeling. Coaches will be actively engaged in practicing gradual release strategies that can be used in their coaching with teachers to ultimately improve student outcomes.

Navigating Difficult Conversations with Teachers

Gretchen Bridgers (Breakout Rotation Session #3)

Coaching is 80% relationship building and 20% strategy. How we communicate to support the growth of others can make or break the transformation teachers can experience. We can't avoid the hard conversations- they propel us to a breakthrough!

Reflecting as Coach

Nita Creekmore (Whole Group Session)

Making sure we take time to reflect as a coach is an important piece of the puzzle of instructional coaching. As we reflect on our practice as coaches, reflecting allows us to see ourselves and our clients as human beings. Nita will discuss various ways to reflect as a coach that will create greater effectiveness and impact in our work.

Presenter Profile

Iesha Billups

Iesha is the owner of Just Lead and Learn LLC where she serves administrators and instructional leaders on coaching as leaders. Her 13+ years of experience as a K-12 teacher, instructional coach, and current role as an inner-city assistant principal in Indianapolis, IN has led her to share her passion for leading and coaching. In addition to her previous roles, she spent time overseas teaching Hungarian students English. Iesha is currently pursuing her Ed.D. in Curriculum and Instruction. Iesha loves spending time with her family and in basketball gyms with her teenage son.

Presenter Profile

Gretchen Bridgers

Gretchen is an elementary educator turned teacher coach and trainer. She has taught grades 2,3 and 5 in a large, urban school district. Gretchen later worked with The New Teacher Project [TNP] at TEACH Charlotte to coach new teachers in grades K-12. She now speaks at various educational conferences, provides professional development to schools and districts nationwide as well as virtually coaches teachers and teacher leaders under her own company, Always A Lesson.

Whether you're teaching a lesson or learning one yourself, it's Always A Lesson.

Presenter Profile

Chrissy Beltran Ceniceros

Chrissy Beltran, the creator of Buzzing with Ms. B, is an educational consultant & coach. She spends her days working with teachers and coaches to engage their students in quality reading and writing experiences, creating resources to support teachers in planning and delivering exciting lessons, and blogging at BuzzingWithMsB.com! Chrissy spent 14 years in elementary education in El Paso, Texas as a teacher and instructional coach. She is also a mom to a very bossy toddler and wife to her long-suffering husband.

Presenter Profile

Crystal Ceresani

Mrs. Crystal Ceresani is an elementary/middle school Assistant Principal in a rural school system in South Georgia. She still works as an instructional coach in addition to her assistant principal duties. Over the last 6 years of leadership and coaching, she's researched and supported deeper learning for all students by helping teachers dig into their standards, curriculum, data-driven planning, and teaching with intention. Crystal aspires to make an impact in education that ultimately benefits student achievement, and she knows the best way to create a change in how students learn is by changing how educators learn. It is her goal to continue to help teachers grow and to share ways to use data in the school and classroom to best know where students are and how to best reach them.

Presenter Profile

Nita Creekmore

Nita Creekmore is an Instructional Coach who lives just outside Atlanta, GA. Nita is originally from Woodbridge, Virginia. She taught in grades 1, 2, and 5 for 13 years before becoming an Elementary School Instructional Coach.
